

Chris Kosty

A premier volleyball player in college and in the European professional league, Kosty will lead the NIC volleyball program as the new head coach in 2008.

Kosty began his collegiate career at Goldenwest Junior College in Huntington Beach, California where he won two California state championships and the state Most Valuable Player award. Kosty completed his college career at the University of Hawaii where he started as an outside hitter.

Kosty played professional volleyball in Europe for two seasons, playing for teams in Germany and Switzerland. Kosty then returned to the states to train with the U.S. National Team as a libero. He also played on the Association of Volleyball Professionals (AVP) tour, made famous by Karch Kiraly, from 2000 to 2005.

Kosty earned a bachelor's degree from Long Beach State where he also served as the volunteer coach of the women's volleyball team that finished 28-4.

Kosty is originally from Fountain Valley, California and lives in Spokane with his wife, Brandy (Barratt). His brother John is the head coach of the Stanford men's volleyball team.

Camp Format

The Position Camp trains athletes in their chosen position with athletes of similar age and ability. The camp combines all major positions and provides repetitions for the skill improvement that a typical team practice doesn't allow. It provides learning opportunities beyond what any other regular skills camp can offer.

Camp Cost

$75 per camper. Cancellations after Aug. 7 are subject to a $25 fee.

Check-in instructions

Check-in at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8 in NIC's Christianson Gymnasium.

What to bring

- Good athletic shoes
- Shorts
- Knee pads
- Water bottle
